

Jennifer Cox, M.A., NT

Manager, National Trainer Network
Mental Health First Aid USA
Washington, D.C.

Jennifer Cox, manager of the National Trainer Network, provides oversight and supervision of the certified Mental Health First Aid (MHFA) National Trainer (NT) consultant pool across all curricula and products. As an integral part of the Office of the Vice President / Client Experience, MHFA USA, she is focused on curricula fidelity, quality, and outcomes, as well as ensuring the team of NTs model best practices in adult learning techniques and remain current on all program innovations and fulfillment procedures. Additionally, she designs and facilitates specialized exceptional learning opportunities across the globe on brain health and well-being. Jennifer earned her dual bachelor of science degrees from Bowling Green State University and her master of arts degree from Columbia College Chicago. Jen's professional career has included extensive experience in clinical practice, law enforcement/corrections, community behavioral health, youth services, county and state government, and corporate wellness.