

Rachel Depperschmidt, M.P.H.

Director of Population Health and Quality Improvement
Church Health
Memphis, Tennessee

Rachel Depperschmidt is the director of population health and quality improvement at Church Health, the nation's largest privately funded charitable clinic. Located in Memphis, Tennessee, Church Health offers a suite of integrated care services to Memphis's uninsured and underinsured, thus making the highest quality care accessible to those facing social and economic challenges. In her role, Rachel serves as lead project manager for population health strategies to improve health outcomes, further a culture of continuous learning, and explore opportunities for innovative care delivery. Rachel received a master's of public health degree in Epidemiology from the University of Memphis in 2019, positioning her well to be included in the Shelby County/City of Memphis Joint Covid Task Force's response for underserved populations. She is also a faithful volunteer at the Tennessee Center for Performance Excellence where she serves as a master examiner on the Board of Examiners.
