Kelsi Walls is a senior account executive at NFP. Prior to this role, she was a benefits consultant with United Actuarial Services, Inc., a consulting and actuarial firm. She has a passion for educating others on the complexities within the healthcare systems and navigating available employee benefits. The primary focus for her has been population health and bringing care to people in the modality that best fits each individual—Healthcare is not one size fits all. Kelsi’s secondary focus is ensuring the various vendor partners within each employee benefit plan collaborate together on behalf of the member instead of working in silos to create a more holistic benefit package.
